

JEWISH CEMETERY SCHOPFLOCH (BAVARIA)

LEGIBLE GRAVE INSCRIPTIONS (ca 1850 - 1937) VERSION 15

Basic data compiled by Angelika Brosig (angelikabrosig@aol.com) in 2006/2007
in cooperation with Rolf Hofmann (harburgproject@aol.com)

Additional data by Angelika Brosig from community death records of Schopfloch (starting 1876) plus Dietrich Weiss "Geschichte der juedischen Gemeinde von Feuchtwangen" plus Wolfgang Hammerl's draft on "Juden in Dinkelsbuehl 1862 - 1938" plus Karl Ernst Stimpfig's transcriptions of various records of Nuernberg State Archives holdings

Further details of vital records gathered by Rolf Hofmann from 19 th centry vital records provided by Association of Bavarian Jewish Communities in Munich + various other sources like tax lists etc

List may contain errors due to difficult legibility of some of the grave inscriptions.

Difficulties in gathering vital records are mainly based on two major facts: As this cemetery was a central burial ground for the Jewish communities of Schopfloch, Feuchtwangen, Moenchsroth, Unterdeufstetten and Wittelshofen, research activities must cover four different collections of vital records. On the other hand Jews in Schopfloch during the 1700s were subjects of two ruling parties = the Prince of Oettingen-Spielberg and the Margrave of Ansbach. Also here tax lists of both rulers must be checked to reveal the ancestors who had lived before 1813, when the Bavarian King ordered Jews to adopt family names. Before that the affiliation of persons to a special family was difficult to find out because of lacking family names. Jews then had their traditional "patronymics" instead = own given name + father's name in second place.

Originally Schopfloch was the burialground for even more Jewish communities like Hengstfeld + Michelbach/Luecke + Schwaebisch Hall + Steinbach + Wiesenbach (all of them until 1809), Crailsheim + Goldbach (both until 1840).

additional data in blue color came from David Shapiro (Jerusalem) from translation of Hebrew grave inscriptions (names on grave inscriptions are written in traditional manner and therefore are different from everyday names of the deceased)

additional remarks in red by Rolf Hofmann indicate speculative, uncertain or incomplete research findings
